

Shiraz or Syrah An Iconic Australian

Shiraz, the grand old workhorse of Australia's wine industry.

It has produced the great soft wines once called "Hermitages" of the Hunter Valley, the luscious ports from Rutherglen, precocious, peppery wines from Central Victoria, the elegant examples from the West, and the famed wines of several South Australian regions, particularly the Barossa Valley and McLaren Vale.

Winemaking, when it comes to Shiraz, is as diverse as any other variety and techniques range from traditional to avant garde. We'll look at examples of both. Shiraz is responsible for many of the ICON wines sold in Australia and these wines will develop over many years. In this Masterclass, we'll learn to identify the characters that make a particular Shiraz a good investment wine. We'll compare aged with younger styles, Australian with Rhone styles, along with the traditional Australian Shiraz terrior and some of the emerging regions.
